MY THOUGHTS AND IDEA'S

CHRONICLES

Thoughts are REAL things. As real as physical things, and even people. I also believe that thoughts shape our reality and our life. What we think manifests in our life. That's why having a strong mindset, as known as being in control of your thoughts is so important. Because if you are, you also become the master of your life. The thing that makes thoughts so intangible is - obviously - that we can't see them, at least not just like that. But thoughts are all around us, constantly shaping the world. Although they seem invisible, you can do many things with thoughts, and thoughts become many things, too.
